Welcome to Hope

Disaster in Colorado Few Know More Than Many

HOPE greets the Extension Service agents of 19 South-west Arkansas counties, gathering here Thursday for a three-day meeting, as the representatives of scientific agriculture.

More can come out of a book than a man can profitably use, and no scientific theory is worth while until matched by practical experience. But it is remarkable how the entire agricultural community of America has progressed in recent years from complete skepticism of scientific farming to an almost equally complete acceptance.

Some years ago the boy who went to study "scientific agriculture" at college was the target of sneers from his hard-bitten elders. . . . But yesterday's agricultural student is today's agricultural elder; and the spirit of learning is more eager.

Hope welcomes the farm and home demonstration agents now in our city, for it is they who actually carry the message of scientific agriculture out on the firing line.

Assistant Editor Extension Service

"We have not met our obligations until we bring everything possible to create a higher standard of living and to increase the satisfaction of rural life to every farm home in Arkansas," declared C. C. Randall, assistant agricultural director of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture's Extension Service at the conference here Thursday morning of county extension agents in southwest Arkansas.

This is the last of a series of four district conferences held in the state. The conference opened Thursday and will be in session throughout Saturday afternoon. L. C. Baker, district agent and Miss Ella Posey, district home demonstration agent, are presiding.

The final objective of agricultural extension work is to develop and create initiative on the part of rural people, to raise standards of living, and to increase the satisfactions of rural life. Mr. Randall said, "The Land Grant College system, of which the Extension Service is a part, is the one agricultural agency which is not limited in its application, and which is designed to serve all the people. Our obligation is the same to all people, and to all classes of people. We should go wherever we can render a service to farm families. The success of our work will be measured in terms of what it has meant to each individual farm family."

Dr. Baker's speech

The south is further along in the economic evolution than is any other section of the country, said Dr. Baker, senior agricultural economist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who delivered the first of a series of three addresses dealing with population trends at the conference this morning.

"The problems you are now facing in the South will be eventually the problems of the entire nation. The farmers of other sections will be interested in the manner in which you solve them. You are facing a real cash crop, cotton, and the trends indicate that the farm people of the north and of the west will be faced with a declining demand for their products. The state must farm tenure in the South is spreading to other sections, where the percentage of tenants is increasing. Your land owners are leaving the land to live in the villages and cities, and that is the tendency everywhere."

"The whole effect of our educational system is to take rural leadership away from the farm and into the city. The operators are gradually losing ownership of the land, and rents, interest payments, and mortgage payments take the wealth of the rural areas into the cities. The South is losing wealth in the form of its young people, who migrate to the north and west to replenish the population in those areas which are not producing enough children to replace their numbers. Here you hear the tremendous cost of rearing children, and when they come to be productive age, they migrate to other sections. Through the process of inheritance, they take with them the ownership of the land. They take with them, too, the culture of Southern farms. To a large extent the culture of the entire nation will depend upon that of the south, for southern farmers will have 10 times as many descendants as the professional and industrial classes of the north and

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The Arkansas Democrat reported Thursday the possibility that Governor Bailey might go on the state supreme court bench, succeeding the late Associate Justice Turner Butler.

The Democrat said "some administration leaders made light of reports that the governor himself might get the place, by resigning as chief executive with an agreement with Lieutenant Governor Bob Bailey of Russellville that the governor would be appointed."

The Democrat said others mentioned for appointment to the bench were: June P. Wooten, Little Rock, chairman of the State Democratic Committee; Chancellor Lee Seaman, Fayetteville; Judge S. M. Bone, Batesville; Judge G. E. Keck, Blytheville; former Attorney General Walter L. Pope; Lamar Williamson, Monticello; Chancellor Frank H. Dodge, Little Rock; W. S. DENVER.—Elderly persons in 47 of states who may be stimulated to pick up and move to Colorado by the news of a million dollar old-age pension "jackpot" distribution in that state, had better wait and watch a while.

The jackpot was real enough, all right. It totalled $566,000 on top of a regular distribution of about $1,378,000 in January. The jackpot went to 23,804 persons now regularly receiving $42 a month each, less any private income.

The average January total was $67.36 per individual, counting $27.77 for the jackpot.

The maximum for one person was $27.77 and many married couples, each spouse being entitled to draw a pension, drew down as much as $140.

It was the largest single distribution of mass government largesse on the part of any state. It went to 3.7 per cent of the population or nearly one person out of 30. There was no trick about it. It was not stage money, but real, spendable cash.

But it does not mean that utopia has dawned at la Townsend. In fact the general citizenship of Colorado is getting madder and madder as it looks on. And the backers of the Colorado old age pension plan are apprehensive.

Both feelings are caused by varied facts. Against the $67.36 average old age pension and bonus in January—and the $140 drawn by many married couples—whole families on general relief are getting $23 or less.

"Children are fainting in the schools from hunger, homes are being broken up and relief in Denver averages only 40 per cent of minimum subsistence," Mr. John R. Mulroy, head of Catholic charities, shouted in a blazing speech the week before the jackpot distribution.

The state capital is in a turmoil. Hundreds of state employees are being dismissed and general relief is threatened, because funds are running short for nearly everything except old age pensions.

Where the Money Goes

The state is spending for old age pensions that the yearly normal rate not counting the jackpot—of $11,000,000 a year, against $2,500,000 yearly for relief.

In January $2,344,000 went to 39,000 old age pensioners, while $197,000 relief money a month is supposedly supporting between 40,000 and 50,000 of the ill, the lame, and the unemployed in general.

The January pension payment alone would finance relief, at the present rate, for a whole year.

All the state's general fund activities, including relief, are budgeted at only $8,300,000 a year, as compared with $11,000,000 for the pensions.

That is a big gap.

Old age pension leaders are so apprehensive indeed, that they sought a court order to stop distribution of the jackpot, though they themselves had carefully framed the jackpot provisions.

The courts refused on the grounds that the pension amendment—put on the ballot by petition and passed in November 1936, represented the will of the people and could not be stayed.

The pension amendment was the tightest, most carefully framed, and most carefully guarded of all laws in the state. It was designed to catch every dollar that went that way, and funnel it into the hungry maw of the pension fund.

It took 85 per cent of the state's income from sales taxes and liquor licenses. Before that, this income had been divided equally between old age pensions and other welfare. Relief, therefore, was thrown out to be supported by the general fund.

The pension amendment further provided that 85 per cent of any future excise tax was to go to pensions. No source of revenue can be withdrawn unless equal revenue is provided from some other source.

Done of the Structure

The "jackpot" was the done of the people get all that is coming to them. It provides that all moneys remaining in the fund on December 31 of each

Colorado Jackpot Overflows!

When Chairman Byrnes (Dem., S. C.) called this "astounding" at news of previous testimony about increasing relief demands, Nims said delays that the prospective WPA workers faced in obtaining state identification numbers may have been the cause. He said that many had registered for WPA jobs be-

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—David E. Lilienthal, a director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, said Wednesday night that "the door is open" for negotiations looking toward government purchases of some of the Southern utility properties of Commonwealth & Southern corporation.

His statement, following a luncheon meeting with President Roosevelt, strengthened possibility that Lilienthal might order here this week with Wendell H. Wilkie, president of Commonwealth & Southern, who suggested last Saturday the government buy the Southern operating subsidiaries.

Lilienthal said he would remain in Washington the rest of the week. He was hopeful of working out a rational and sensible agreement between TVA and Commonwealth and Southern.

However, he had not changed from his position that TVA would buy nothing except "useful physical assets."

Three New Cases Reported to City Police Thursday

Residences Are Entered by Robbers

POLICE IN WARNING

Citizens Urged to Lock
Doors at Night, or When Away From Home

The Hope police department, mystified by a series of recent robberies, faced three new cases Thursday as an attempt was being made to halt the worst outbreak of residential robberies here in several months.

The crime wave spread to other sections of the city with the report Thursday of three new cases.

J. E. Allen, manager of Singer sewing machine company, reported that a burglar entered his home at 621 South Fulton street and stole $60 in cash from the purse of Mrs. Allen.

E. C. Sterling, 523 South Elm street, reported that a burglar was discovered in his home at 3:30 a.m. Thursday, but was frightened away. Nothing was missing from the household, an investigation showed.

Purse Taken

The latest outbreak was at 8:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. John L. Britt, 600 North Elm street. Her purse was robbed of $1.50.

Mrs. Britt said that she had taken her children to school, and returning home entered the front door. As she entered the front she heard the rear door slam.

Frightened and alone, she hesitated to go to the rear of the house until help was summoned. The intruder escaped unseen. An investigation showed the robber had picked up her purse, carried to the rear and rifled it of $1.50.

At the Sterling home on South Elm street, a burglar was discovered by J. O. Perry, fireman on an L. & A. train, who has a room at the Sterling home.

Perry said he entered the house about 3:30 a.m. upon reaching Hope from Shreveport. He said a man "wearing a big black hat" fled from the house. He told of arousing Mr. Sterling from bed and a subsequent search of the neighborhood.

Night officers were summoned to the scene. They picked up a 25-year-old youth in that neighborhood and placed him in jail. The youth gave Wellington, Kansas, as his home.

Perry faced the youth in the city jail Thursday morning, but was unable to identify him as the man "wearing the black hat." The youth is being detained for further questioning.

The J. E. Allen home on South Fulton street was robbed a few nights ago, but was only reported to police Thursday, Miss Alois Allen, a daughter, told officers that she slept in the room where her mother's purse was lying.

The robbery was discovered the following morning. The robber took the $60 in cash, a pair of gloves, a bank book, and other items which the purse contained.

Police Warning

Police issued a warning to citizens to keep their homes locked at night and also when away from home. Officers also asked that when a robbery is discovered to leave the evidence as found and notify the police immediately.

Recent cases unsolved are:

Hank Sommerville home, South Elm, $14 taken. Money and note returned to police office. The note apologized for the robbery.

John S. Gibson home, West Division street, where $18 in cash was taken from the purse of Miss Genevieve Williams. Robbers later returned and left $15 of the loot on the front porch.

Apartment of Merlita Cobb, West Second street, robbed of $35 in cash. No part of it returned.

Home of Mrs. H. J. F. Garrett, West Second street entered. Burglar thwarted in attempted robbery by screams of Mrs. Garrett.

Hope Steam Laundry entered and $35 worth of clothing taken.

Cats can see better in the daytime than at night, but do most of their hunting after dark because their prey is out at that time.

In the small villages of Egypt, housewives use little portable ovens, which can be carried wherever the family goes.

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—March cotton opened Thursday at $6.64 and closed at $6.66.

Spot cotton closed steady and three points up, middling 8.76.

Country Needs Some Work From Congress

THE retirement of Associate Justice Sutherland would seem to end the Supreme Court reorganization controversy once and for all.

Partisan considerations regarding the merits or demerits of the conservative and liberal views of the court factions should not prevent the nation from heaving a sigh of thankfulness.

Die-hard reactionaries undoubtedly are bemoaning the fact that the Sutherland retirement, coupled with that of Justice Van Devanter, leaves the high tribunal with only two staunch conservative justices.

Liberals are shouting hosannas, of course, knowing that President Roosevelt now may appoint a justice whose views are more in line with the principles which he espouses.

BUT to the mass of American people, the fact that the court fight is over is really more important than the outcome—

if it can be said that there has been an outcome. Presumably President Roosevelt now will be content to let the court enlargement plan go by the boards, and that will be a major relief to those who feared that he might bring the matter before Congress again at the current session.

Congress wasted almost all its regular session last year in arguing and bickering over the court plan. Virtually every piece of major legislation was stalemated or side tracked because members of the House and Senate were so intent on the court fight that they couldn't take time to act on constructive legislation.

The thread of the court plan controversy ran through every cloak-room conversation, every committee hearing, every floor debate. Members couldn't even formulate opinions regarding such unrelated matters as farm legislation, government reorganization, or appropriations without wondering how their stand would affect the fight over the federal judiciary.

Even the President's own legislative program went by the boards in the quarrel over his judicial reorganization plan, and the controversy carried over into the special session to such an extent that nothing was accomplished.

The nation will be glad to know that the court proposal, as an issue, no longer will hang around congressmen's necks like The Old Man of the Sea, preventing them from serious consideration of more immediately pressing matters.

THE country needs new tax legislation and farm legislation. It needs a Congress which will buckle down to the job of formulating a government labor policy which will ease this constant employer-employee bickering and this internecine labor warfare. It needs an intelligent approach to such matters as monopoly and anti-trust legislation, the armament and defense situation, and foreign affairs.

With the Supreme Court fight out of the way, it is to be hoped the nation will get some of the things it needs.

Heroism In Scotland

THE Scotch, it appears are not only thrifty, but brave. Over in Aberdeen the other day the Kilt Society, in a momentous session, barred the Scottish national dress to women because women's legs from the knee to the ankle are not so proportioned as to permit them to wear kilts "with due dignity."

S. Hutcheson is reported as having told the society that he would "have something serious to say about it" if his wife ever wore kilts.

Can you imagine American husbands having the audacity to tell their American wives that they can't wear the kind of skirts they choose because their legs are not "suitable?"

Explains When Newborn Babies Should Learn to See, Hear, Taste and Speak

No. 428
A newborn baby can tell the difference between light and dark, but the experts have found out that he does not really see during the first few weeks.

His eyes at this time will make irregular and uncoordinated movements because he does not have the power to fix his vision on any given object.

Mothers frequently worry because the newborn baby seems to be squinting. This is not significant because until the child is about two months old little can be done in determining his vision.

Strong light annoys little babies but it is not likely to damage their eyes; greatly since the reflex which causes the closing of the eye in the presence of strong light appears almost at birth.

After a few weeks the child will be observed following a light with his eyes, and at about three months of age the eyes will begin moving together as they do normally. It is believed that children are able to recognize people whom they see regularly when they reach five to six months of age.

The newborn baby does not seem to hear very much, but within a few days it does show signs of being able to hear. At this time the hearing of the child is very sensitive and any sudden or loud noise will make it manifest signs of fright.

At about three months the child will turn its head toward the place from which the sound came. Apparently, however, it does not identify

Families Need Polite Reminders

Walter was asked in to play with a new boy who had started to school the first of December. In a few short days they were chums, and Walter had gotten over his first embarrassing moments when his friend, Jerry by name, treated his mother as though she were a combination of superior officer, best friend and a sort of goddess all combined.

It seemed to Walter, unaccustomed to the earmarks of a higher culture, that this was the limit, that is, a first light. A mother wasn't a person to be teased and bullied, but somebody to be cherished.

Mrs. Brown, Jerry's mother, was a swell person herself, he decided. She made gingerbread that just touched the spot, and she always had something to do with their silence. For she seemed to be so pleased; but, anyway, neither Jerry nor daddy said much more about it. Walter helped with the dishes and almost yesterday his mother with his "What can I do now?" CONSTANCE CORBY—heroine; richest girl in the world.
BRET HARDESTY—hero; bridge builder.
RODNEY BRANSON—Constance's suitor.
KATIE BLYN—Constance's "double."

CHAPTER XIV
"I'm going home," Connie told Eloise a few days later. The words held an emptiness—for how could any place be "home," when Bret would not be there?

Yet, it was because of Bret that she was leaving. He had scarcely looked at her these past few days, not once directly, deep into her eyes; he had had only the few necessary words to say. He had meant it when he had said everything was over between them. Now the work in the camp's office was lighter, so nearly was the bridge completed, that old Pop Walters could manage without Connie's help.

"There was a time," Eloise said, "when I would have been glad. But not now. You know I shall hate to see you go; you know I'll miss you."

Connie said that she, too, would miss her friend. She was packing her few belongings into the imitation leather bag; its gilt letters "K. E." did not look so bright somehow. But she would carry it. She would wear the navy blue suit and the perky little hat.

No one, besides Bret, must know, until she had returned, her true identity.

"Someone else will miss you too," Eloise said, smiling her shy, quiet smile. There was no hurt in the grave eyes now. She had come to love her friend that she could put aside her own heart's desire for her. Bret always had been her big brother; that had been her big brother; that had been her big brother; that had been her big brother.

having failed, she could no longer bear to stay. On an impulse she had decided she must go at once.

I DO things on an impulse, she thought bitterly; it had been an impulse—a crazy, thrilling one—that had brought her here. It seemed fitting that another should take her away.

"I'll catch the midnight train," she said to Eloise. "It stops, when it's flagged, at the junction. Bret won't know I've gone until morning. By then I'll be miles and miles away—as he claimed I am, anyway—in another world entirely different from this."

"You shouldn't go without telling Bret!" the other girl protested. "You may have quarreled—I know something has gone wrong between you. But don't you know that old saying about true love? And yours and Bret's—is true, if any love ever was."

"You're a darling, Eloise," Connie said softly. She did not think she could have been as fine, had Bret loved someone else. The thought brought a stab of pain. Bret might yet come to do that very thing. He might, in time, find that Eloise was the only girl in the world for him. His love might have been true, but it had not stood the test of cents and dollars, after all. He would not marry her because she had so much money. And all her life she had been afraid to accept anyone, even Rodney, for fear he would be marrying her for her millions!

"Surely you'll leave some message for Bret," Eloise urged. "When he finds you're gone, he'll ask me if you didn't leave a message."

Connie shook her head again. She snapped the lock on the bag. "I don't believe he will," she said. But if he did—her heart skipped a beat—that would mean he still cared a little. She must leave that word for him; something to let him know that she cared, too, and would "forever and ever."

"If he asks," Connie said, "tell him that I loved him because I didn't think he was afraid of anything. Tell him that I wouldn't care—if he had loved me enough—and that he has forgotten that love is the strongest, the biggest thing in the world. Bigger than all the hills or mountains, bigger than putting a hand on a fellow's shoulder as though she was a man, and talking about how much fun it was to play hooky."

Example Worth Following
He couldn't fathom it, but he was cleared. That was enough. So one night, when the family sat down to supper, Walter pulled out his mother's chair. And he didn't sit down until she had brought in the last vegetable and seated herself. The family made a little fun of him, especially his father, but after the third day they quit it. Maybe mother herself had something to do with their silence. For she seemed to be so pleased; but, anyway, neither Jerry nor daddy said much more about it. Walter helped with the dishes and almost yesterday his mother with his "What can I do now?" Being a novice at politeness, he appeared a little prudish and artificial. But one day, low and behold, there was his father standing up while mother got seated. And he even said one night when the telephone rang, "I'll get it, Nellie," instead of waiting for her to drop her magazine and go out to the hall. Both children were astonished.

Intelligent Family Pride
Walter figured something like this. "Why daddy is a real gentleman. He knows more about doing things than I do. He knows as much as Mr. Brown." Children get impressions, and correct ones.

Walter might forget all about this new courtesy, as children are great experimenters and showmen, but with the continued influence next door, he will most probably find his new manner quite natural in a few more short weeks. And vicariously, the rest of the family will pick it up.

They have gotten careless, and three of them had cussed to think of mother as a lady desecrating chivalry, thought and consideration. All the lessons in the home are not taught by parents. A child may make over an entire family very often, and this is why associates of the right sort are the best education he can have.

Seeker Reinstatement
NEW YORK—Helen Hicks, who is to be married in February, says that she will apply for reinstatement within a year. After that date Miss Hicks suspects that her golf will be curtailed to play in and around Little Rock where she will make her home. The former woman's champion has told the sports goods concerns for which she traveled that all is concluded.

Miss Hicks believes that she will have to wait the full three years for reinstatement. The U.S.G.A. is a stickler on that. However, the association starts counting its years from the date on which the applicant ceases playing professionally. Had the Woodmere L. C. miss been in professional golf more than five years she would have lost her chance for reinstatement.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

It is jarring, to say the least, to dip into such a book as "Two Wars and More to Come" (Carroll and Voss, $2.50). Before you have read half a dozen pages erbert L. Matthews has snubbed whatever seriousness you might have had concerning the isolation of America in world affairs.

During foreign correspondence of the New York Times, Mr. Matthews has seen two wars in two years. He was with the Italians in Ethiopia and he was sent to Madrid when the Spanish Civil war flared there. Much of his book, in fact, was written under bombardment in Madrid. And the thunderrings echo through its pages.

"Two wars—and more to come!" writes Mr. Matthews. "So very much more, in fact, for lots of machinery has been set in motion, and not the least of these is the greatest class struggle that the world has yet seen. A Civil war is the smallest thing that is happening here on the Spanish Peninsula."

"Is it possible that there are still people who do not know the Spanish war is changing the face of the earth? This export brand of Fascism with its link now with Nazism in Germany is an ugly thing to behold. Moreover, I should hate to see it exported to the United States. What had been, however, until recently a more or less academic problem for Americans has now become a brutal reality."

So Mr. Matthews drives his warning home, an epilogue, so to speak, of two wars in two years. But for the most part Mr. Matthews' book recounts his stirring adventures both in Ethiopia and Spain. It reminds you of Richard Harding Davis, but, perhaps, in better form. Magnificent reporting under any light!—P. G. F.

he appeared a little prudish and artificial. But one day, low and behold, there was his father standing up while mother got seated. And he even said one night when the telephone rang, "I'll get it, Nellie," instead of waiting for her to drop her magazine and go out to the hall. Both children were astonished.

Intelligent Family Pride
Walter figured something like this. "Why daddy is a real gentleman. He knows more about doing things than I do. He knows as much as Mr. Brown." Children get impressions, and correct ones.

Walter might forget all about this new courtesy, as children are great experimenters and showmen, but with the continued influence next door, he will most probably find his new manner quite natural in a few more short weeks. And vicariously, the rest of the family will pick it up.

They have gotten careless, and three of them had cussed to think of mother as a lady desecrating chivalry, thought and consideration. All the lessons in the home are not taught by parents. A child may make over an entire family very often, and this is why associates of the right sort are the best education he can have.

Seeker Reinstatement
NEW YORK—Helen Hicks, who is to be married in February, says that she will apply for reinstatement within a year. After that date Miss Hicks suspects that her golf will be curtailed to play in and around Little Rock where she will make her home. The former woman's champion has told the sports goods concerns for which she traveled that all is concluded.

Miss Hicks believes that she will have to wait the full three years for reinstatement. The U.S.G.A. is a stickler on that. However, the association starts counting its years from the date on which the applicant ceases playing professionally. Had the Woodmere L. C. miss been in professional golf more than five years she would have lost her chance for reinstatement.

FLAPPER FANNY

"Sure, I got it fightin'. You think I'm going to let your name be handed around on a public playground?"

Paul Harrison in Hollywood

New Movie Air Thriller Will Include Actual Race Scenes

HOLLYWOOD — At least one sequence of MGM's "Test Pilot" will go to the screen without any retakes, mer's National Air Races.

Three camera crews were sent to Cleveland to film the Thompson Trophy Race and now some of these scenes will be cut into "Test Pilot" to provide thrilling realism.

In droer that these scenes may tie in credibly with the picture, Metro has bought a couple of the planes which actually participated in the race. These ships will be used for closeups with Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy.

The plane which Gable is supposed to fly is Earl Ortman's Maraux Bronberg Special which took second money in the Thompson classic. They could not buy the first-prize winner, Rudy Kling did that one in Miami last month.

Driving to the Van Nuys Airport, where the company is on location, I wondered what the movie-makers would do about the mountains which occupy every horizon, for there are no such mountains around Cleveland.

Eliminating Mountains
What they did was perch their cameras on high platforms and shoot down at the field. Around the edge were official cars, ambulances, trouble cars and fueling trucks, all decked out with new Ohio Licenses.

Only thing wrong was that the license didn't have any letters on them, while real Ohio plates have two letters. The scene being shot was after the finish of the race, with Gable standing beside his ship and wearing a wreath of flowers. Just then, however, another plane is supposed to crash at the end of the field, and the crowd prints away in the wake of ambulances and fire trucks.

Myrna Loy struts to dash with the crowd, but Tracy stops her because the crack up victim is a friend of hers.

Run for Their Lunch
Gable seemed to feel pretty silly in his formal decoration, and the ribbons of Tracy and Miss Loy didn't help to go to tire, for after three takes they ran attire, for after three takes they had run about half a mile. Director Victor Fleming promised lunch after one more take, and this sustained the run for a final dash across the field. Technical advisor for "Test Pilot."

During 1935, the United States exported 3,234,000,000 pounds of unmanufactured cotton. In the same year it imported 63,374,000 square yards of cotton cloth.

Marching Song

Go forward with no thought of fear,
Within your heart, faith burning clear,
Carry aloft joy's joyful banner,
From youth's first dawn until life is gone.
And when the road grows steep and long,
Hold high your head and sing a song,
A song of praise so true and sweet,
That it will hasten marching feet.
When shadows hide the distant goal,
Let love make bright the way, O Soul.

Small Businesses to Be Called Into FRD's Conference

Manufacturers Forecast Business Pickup "Some Time This Year"

ORGANIZE COUNCIL

Advisory Group of Industry, Finance and Labor to Be Formed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Two-thirds of the country's manufacturers expect improvement in business some time in 1938. C. M. Chester, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, told senator investigators Thursday.

The chairman of the board of General Foods corporation said "only a few" manufacturers contacted in a cross-section survey thought there would be a turn for the worse. Colby testified before the senate unemployment committee.

Meanwhile, a White House aide said Thursday President Roosevelt would call in small business men soon in seeking co-operative methods or regularizing business and employment.

This was disclosed as the president put forward the organization of a continuing, all-embracing council as a simple method of helping the administration formulate national economic policies.

The president said the council should include small business men. Thus far, a White House official noted, presidential conferences have included only captains of industry and finance and labor leaders.

Polities Moderated

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt said Wednesday night he is working toward creation of an advisory council comprising all elements of the national economic life to guide him in the formulation of federal policies.

He made the statement to the Commerce Department's 50-man Business Advisory Council after approving a statement of that group's ideas on what should be done to end the industrial recession.

The president modified his stand of last week for abolition of all holding companies. He said that some holding companies have produced a certain amount of mass efficiency in operation or are otherwise to the public interest.

Commenting on a request by the council for legislation fixing responsibility of labor unions, Mr. Roosevelt suggested that unions should, by consent rather than by law, limit publicly their receipts and expenditures.

The council, formed in 1933 at the suggestion of Secretary Roper and endorsed by administration policy since that time, met in subcommittee and later as a unit to approve the statement of its views, before going to the White House.

W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railroad and chairman of the council, was the spokesman. He read the statement of the council which:

Approved the object of wage-hour legislation, but asked that a study of the question be made before another bill is introduced. Mr. Roosevelt later replied that he hoped such a study would not preclude action at this session of Congress.

Pledged to co-operation of the group in working out legislation for elimination of harmful business practices, "recognized" that the "anti-trust laws are to an extent outdated," and said that monopoly and monopolistic practices were incompatible with democracy.

Pleaded the council's help in working toward decentralization of industry, geographically, but "viewed with grave concern any general move to outlaw holding companies."

Deplored the administration's controversy with the public utility industry and asked that the industry be assured it will not be destroyed by government competition. Mr. Roosevelt said the misunderstanding affected but 15 per cent of the industry.

Endorsed the president's housing program.

Called for modification of the undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax and said that the mass of investors "need assurance as to the direction reform is to take."

Guessed any "further cheapening of the dollar."

fore they were really in need of relief, because of a mistaken belief that such registration would give them priority. Nims said state WPA rolls had been increased by certification of 20,500 persons recently, in addition to the 55,328 who were listed in December.

In Pennsylvania there are 105,000 persons eligible for WPA aid who cannot be put on the rolls because the quota of 193,000 is filled. J. B. Hudson, state WPA director, testified. He said employment had increased slightly this month in the soft coal fields but this had been offset by a decline in the hard coal areas.

David C. Adie, New York state public welfare director, said that approximately 1,200,000 are on relief in the state exclusive of those employed on WPA projects. He said the state's relief bill for the fiscal year would approximate $200,000,000 of which the federal government would contribute $25,000,000.

In New York city 460,259 persons are drawing relief in some form. Expenditures in the city for local and state relief during 1937 totaled $139,000,000 and 326,421 persons were on those rolls in December, 1937. This was the lowest in almost four years.

Who Must File Returns

Returns are required of every single person who for the year had a gross income of $1,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 or more and of every husband and wife living together who for the year 1937 had an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more or an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more. Widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent are classified as single persons. The personal exemptions are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families.

Husbands and wife living together at the close of the taxable year may include their income in a single joint return or make separate returns of the income of each. If separate returns are filed, one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which actually belongs to him. If a joint return is filed such return is treated as a taxable unit, and the income disclosed is subject to both the normal tax and the surtax.

In order for a return to be classified as a joint return of husband and wife, both spouses must have had some income or deductions in the year for which the return is filed, and the return must include the income and deductions of both spouses.

If a joint return is not made by an agent of the taxpayers it must be signed by both husband and wife and sworn to before a proper officer by the spouse preparing the return, or if either or both prepare the return then by both spouses.

Where separate returns are filed by husband and wife, the joint personal exemption of $2,500 may be taken by either or divided between them in any proportion as agreed upon. In filing a joint return husband and wife compute the earned income credit in the same manner as in filing separate returns. If taxpayer's net income is not more than $3,000, the entire net income is considered to be earned net income.

Husband and wife may elect each year whether to file a joint return or separate returns. Where, however, joint or separate returns have been filed for a particular year, neither husband nor wife may after the due date of the return file an amended return or returns on a different basis for that year.

Law Authorized by year be distributed pro rata among those on the pension rolls.

From where comes the jackpot? There's the rub.

The jackpot is a one-time proposition and by spring the pension fund, far overflowing, will be running short. Pensions will be restricted and prorated, possibly as low as the previous $30 a month.

Funds from the two-cent sales tax and for liquor began piling up in the old age pension coffers on January 1, 1937, when the amendment was effective. They piled up at the rate of nearly $3,000,000 a year—for more than enough to sustain the 29,000 pensioners under the $30-a-month old law, to which the federal government contributed 50-50.

The new and higher pension law became effective September 1, last and since that time the reserve has gone down rapidly. But $956,000 remained on December 31.

On Tax Strike Now
The pension lists are swelling every month, and some persons anticipate a maximum of 40,000. January and February are lean sales months and may produce less than $600,000 apiece, against the probable demand of $1,000,000 a month by that time.

Then what? A demand for a three-cent sales tax is considered possible, opposed to the mounting demand for revision downward and a better balanced welfare program.

Coloradans are on a tax strike now against the service tax, designed to provide income for relief and other general fund activities that were impoverished when the sales tax and liquor taxes were taken for old age pensions.

Colleges' Growth
The growth of the College of Agriculture is playing a part in the raising of rural standards, said Miss Posey. Enrollment at the College this year is the largest in the history of the institution, and includes students from all but seven counties in the state.

An explanation of the functions of commodity exchanges, given by W. D. Espy, chief of the New Orleans office of the Commodity Exchange Administration, completed the morning program.

At the afternoon session, reaching more people and higher standards of living were the themes of the discussion. Educational information was discussed by K. B. Roy, agricultural editor, Miss Frances Stanley, assistant editor; C. L. Smith, Hempstead county agent; and Miss Jewell Davis, Polk county home demonstration agent.

Miss Connie J. Bonslugel, state home demonstration agent, discussed the development of leadership as a means of reaching more rural people. She emphasized that all people in the county should be familiar with the programs of work outlined by the county agricultural committees. A plan for the strengthening and enlargement of the county committees was outlined by Mr. Baber.

Raising school standards through rural electrification was discussed by E. L. Arnold, agricultural engineer, and Mrs. Ida A. Fenton, economist in home management. Electricity on the farm can be used for productive purposes, and should not be considered merely as a luxury, Mr. Arnold said. He urged that careful plans be made before any wiring is attempted in order to get the best use of power.

The closing discussion of the afternoon was led by Miss Posey, and concerned the home-made homes campaign sponsored by the Service. Miss Euna Harrell and W. F. Spivey reported on progress of the campaign.

Commissioner Has Welfare Control

Attorney General Rules Miss Haynie May Hire, Fire Employees

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Attorney General Jack Holt ruled Wednesday that the commissioner of public welfare has authority to employ and discharge personnel of the state Department of Public Welfare.

That ruling nullified at least until a court test of the issue has been obtained—a regulation of the state Welfare Board that personnel matters of the department must be approved by the board.

The opinion, prepared by Assistant Attorney General Millard Alford, explained that "evidently the legislature took into consideration the fact that the commissioner of public welfare as such, was the executive head of a department employing more than 300 employees, and in order to effectively discipline her department, the legislature saw fit to give her sole authority to discharge."

Although the opinion, by setting aside the regulation of the board giving itself authority to approve or reject actions of Miss Gussie Haynie, commissioner, in personnel matters, it did little toward final clarification of the tangle occasioned by confusion of commodity exchanges, given by W. D. Espy, chief of the New Orleans office of the Commodity Exchange Administration, completed the morning program.

At the afternoon session, reaching more people and higher standards of living were the themes of the discussion. Educational information was discussed by K. B. Roy, agricultural editor, Miss Frances Stanley, assistant editor; C. L. Smith, Hempstead county agent; and Miss Jewell Davis, Polk county home demonstration agent.

Miss Connie J. Bonslugel, state home demonstration agent, discussed the development of leadership as a means of reaching more rural people. She emphasized that all people in the county should be familiar with the programs of work outlined by the county agricultural committees. A plan for the strengthening and enlargement of the county committees was outlined by Mr. Baber.

Raising school standards through rural electrification was discussed by E. L. Arnold, agricultural engineer, and Mrs. Ida A. Fenton, economist in home management. Electricity on the farm can be used for productive purposes, and should not be considered merely as a luxury, Mr. Arnold said. He urged that careful plans be made before any wiring is attempted in order to get the best use of power.

The closing discussion of the afternoon was led by Miss Posey, and concerned the home-made homes campaign sponsored by the Service. Miss Euna Harrell and W. F. Spivey reported on progress of the campaign.

BOBBITT

But Branch Bobbitt, like so many other independent experts, prefers Luckies...

"AT AUCTIONS in my warehouse in Farmville, North Carolina," says Mr. Branch Bobbitt, "the higher the tobacco sells for, the better my profits. So I'm always glad to see Lucky Strike buyers in there bidding. They know what they want and they'll keep bidding right up until they get it."

"Well—in a cigarette—it's the tobacco that counts. I know tobacco and I know what tobacco is in what cigarettes. So that's one reason I've smoked Luckies for 5 or 6 years."

Mr. Bobbitt represents the "aristocracy" of tobacco experts. He judges the tobacco that the growers grow. He's impartial, not connected with any cigarette manufacturer.

Many other experts agree with Mr. Bobbitt. Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

Country Needs Some Work From Congress

THE retirement of Associate Justice Sutherland would seem to end the Supreme Court reorganization controversy once and for all.
Partisan considerations regarding the merits or demerits of the conservative and liberal views of the court factions should not prevent the nation from heaving a sigh of thankfulness.
Die-hard reactionaries undoubtedly are bemoaning the fact that the Sutherland retirement, coupled with that of Justice Van Devanter, leaves the high tribunal with only two staunch conservative justices.
Liberals are shouting hosannas, of course, knowing that President Roosevelt now may appoint a justice whose views are more in line with the principles which he espouses.

BUT to the mass of American people, the fact that the court fight is over is really more important than the outcome—if it can be said that there has been an outcome.
Presumably President Roosevelt now will be content to let the court engagement plan go by the boards, and that will be a major relief to those who feared that he might bring the matter before Congress again at the current session.
Congress wasted almost all its regular session last year in arguing and bickering over the court plan. Virtually every piece of major legislation was stalemated or side tracked because members of the House and Senate were so intent on the court fight that they couldn't take time to act on constructive legislation.
The thread of the court plan controversy ran through every cloak-room conversation, every committee hearing, every floor debate. Members couldn't even formulate opinions regarding such unrelated matters as farm legislation, government reorganization, or appropriations without wondering how their stand would affect the fight over the federal judiciary.

Even the President's own legislative program went by the boards in the quarrel over his judicial reorganization plan, and the controversy carried over into the special session to such an extent that nothing was accomplished.
The nation will be glad to know that the court proposal, as an issue, no longer will hang around congressmen's necks like The Old Man of the Sea, preventing them from serious consideration of more immediately pressing matters.

THE country needs new tax legislation and farm legislation. It needs a Congress which will buckle down to the job of formulating a government labor policy which will ease this constant employer-employee bickering and this interminable labor warfare. It needs an intelligent approach to such matters as monopoly and anti-trust legislation, the armament and defense situation, and foreign affairs.

With the Supreme Court fight out of the way, it is to be hoped the nation will get some of the things it needs.

Heroism In Scotland

THE Scotch, it appears are not only thrifty, but brave.
Over in Aberdeen the other day the Kilt Society, in a momentous session, barred the Scottish national dress to women because women's legs from the knee to the ankle are not so proportioned as to permit them to wear kilts "with due dignity."
S. Hitchenson is reported as having told the society that he would "have something serious to say about it" if his wife ever wore kilts.
Can you imagine American husbands having the audacity to tell their American wives that they can't wear the kind of skirts they choose because their legs are not "suitable?"

Explains When Newborn Babies Should Learn to See, Hear, Taste and Speak

No. 428
A newborn baby can tell the difference between light and dark. Some talk experts have found out that he does not really see during the first few weeks.
His eyes at this time will make irregular and unco-ordinated movements because he does not have the power to fix his vision on any given object.
Mothers frequently worry because the newborn baby seems to be squinting. This is not significant because until the child is about two months old little can be done in determining his vision.
Strong light annoys little babies but it is not likely to damage their eyes; greatly seen the reflex which causes the closing of the eye in the presence of strong light appears almost at birth.
After a few weeks the child will be observed following a light with his eyes, and at about three months of age the eyes will begin moving together as they do normally. It is believed that children are able to recognize people whom they see regularly when they reach five to six months of age.
The newborn baby does not seem to hear very much, but within a few days it does show signs of being able to hear. At this time the hearing of the child is very sensitive and any sudden or loud noise will make it startle and even frighten.
At about three months the child will turn its head toward the place from which the sound came. Apparently, however, it does not identify voices with definite people until at least the fourth month.

A new born baby can tell the difference between sweet and bitter. Apparently it is not especially sensitive to smells of various kinds. That develops later than the other senses and with some children it does not develop until they are several years old.
Babies can, however, tell when they are comfortable and when they are not. A baby that is left wet or cold will cry. A baby with colic or cramps will cry. A baby who gets food that is too hot will indicate that it is burned.
Children differ as to the time at which they begin to talk. Some talk early and some late. Some talk much more than others. Generally, simple words are spoken toward the end of the first year and sentences by the end of the second.
The noises that babies make should not be considered as speech although many a parent will take a solemn oath that the child called him by his middle name. Children first learn nouns which are the names of objects which they want. Next they learn a few words indicating action or motion. Adjectives come later—which is probably fortunate.
Normally children usually can be taught to control bowel action by the third or fourth month and at 10 or 12 months of age may learn to tell for den or loud noise will make it startle and even frighten.
At about three months the child will turn its head toward the place from which the sound came. Apparently, however, it does not identify

Families Need Polite Reminders

Walter was asked to play with a new boy who had started to school the first of December. In a few short days they were chums, and Walter had gotten over his first embarrassing moments when his friend, Jerry by name, treated his mother as though she were a combination of superior officer, best friend and a sort of goddess all combined.
It seemed to Walter, unaccustomed to the earmarks of a higher culture, that this was the limit, that is, a first did, then slowly he began to see a light. A mother wasn't a person to be teased and bullied, but somebody to be cherished.
Mrs. Brown, Jerry's mother, was a well person herself, he decided. She made gingerbread that just touched the spot, and she always had something jolly to say. She didn't think a

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CONSTANCE CORBY—heroine; richest girl in the world.
KATIE BLISS—hero; bridge builder.
RODNEY BRANDON—Connie's fiancé.
KATIE BLISS—Connie's "double."
Yesterday's disclosure of her true identity ends Connie's romance; Bret is forgetting but not understanding. So the weight of Connie's millions rests on her shoulders again.
CHAPTER XIV
"I'm going home," Connie told Eloise a few days later. The words held an emptiness—for how could any place be "home," when Bret would not be there!
Yet, it was because of Bret that she was leaving. He had scarcely looked at her these past few days, not once directly, deep into her eyes; he had had only the few necessary words to say. He had meant it when he had said everything was over between them. Now the work in the camp's office was lighter, so nearly was the bridge completed, that old Pop Walters could manage without Connie's help.
"There was a time," Eloise said "when I would have been glad. But not now. You know I shall hate to see you go; you know I'll miss you."
Connie said that she, too, would miss her friend. She was packing her few belongings into the imitation leather bag; its gilt letters "K. B." did not look so bright somehow. But she would carry it. She would wear the navy blue suit and the perky little hat.
No one, besides Bret, must know, until she had returned, her true identity.
"Someone else will miss you, too," Eloise said, smiling her shy, quiet smile. There was no hurt in the grave eyes now. She had so come to love her friend that she could put aside her own heart's desire for her. Bret always had been her big brother; that he would remain, she knew. Connie shook her golden head. She could not trust herself to speak for a moment or two. She had stayed on, hoping that Bret would really forgive her, really understand, that he would see she was the same girl with whom he had fallen in love, that all her millions did not matter. But now, having failed, she could no longer bear to stay. On an impulse she had decided she must go at once.

I DO things on an impulse, she thought bitterly; it had been an impulse—a crazy, thrilling one—that had brought her here. It seemed fitting that another should take her away.
"I'll catch the midnight train," she said to Eloise. "It stops, when it's flagged, at the junction. Bret won't know I've gone until morning. By then I'll be miles and miles away—as he claimed I am, anyway—in another world entirely different from this."
"You shouldn't go without telling Bret!" the other girl protested. "You may have quarreled—I know something has gone wrong between you. But don't you know that old saying about true love? And yours—and Bret's—is true, if any love ever was."
"You're a darling, Eloise," Connie said softly. She did not think she could have been as fine, had Bret loved someone else. The thought brought a stab of pain. Bret might yet come to do that very thing. He might, in time, find that Eloise was the only girl in the world for him. His love might have been true, but it had not stood the test of cents and dollars, after all. He would not marry her because she had so much money. And all her life she had been afraid to accept anyone, even Rodney, for fear he would be marrying her for her millions!
"Surely you'll leave some message for Bret," Eloise urged. "When he finds you're gone, he'll ask me if you didn't leave a message."
Connie shook her head again. She snapped the lock on the bag. "I don't believe he will," she said. But if he did—her heart skipped a beat—that would mean he still cared a little. She must leave some word for him; something to let him know that she cared, too, and would "forever and ever."
"If he asks," Connie said, "tell him that I loved him because I didn't think he was afraid of anything. Tell him that I wouldn't be—if he had loved me enough—and that he has forgotten that love is the strongest, the biggest thing in the world. Bigger than all the hills or mountains, bigger

By Bruce Catton

It is jarring, to say the least, to dip into such a book as "Two Wars and More to Come" (Carrick and sons, $2.50). Before you have read half a dozen pages Herbert L. Matthews has smothered whatever smugness you might have had concerning the isolation of America in world affairs.
Daring foreign correspondent of the New York Times, Mr. Matthews has seen two wars in two years. He was with the Italians in Ethiopia and he was sent to Madrid when the Spanish Civil war flared there. Much of his book, in fact, was written under bombardment in Madrid. And the thundering echoes through its pages.
"Two wars—and more to come!" writes Mr. Matthews. "So very much more, in fact, for lots of machinery has been set in motion, and not the least of these is the greatest class struggle that the world has yet seen. A Civil war is the smallest thing that is happening here on the Spanish Peninsula."
"Is it possible that there are still people who do not know the Spanish war is changing the face of the earth? This export brand of Fascism with its link now with Nazism in Germany is an ugly thing to behold. Moreover, I should hate to see it exported to the United States. What has been, however, recently a mere or less academic problem for Americans has now become a brutal reality."
So Mr. Matthews drives his warning home, in an epilogue, as to speak, of two wars in two years. But for the most part Mr. Matthews' book recounts his stirring adventures both in Ethiopia and Spain. It reminds you of Richard Harding Davis, but, perhaps, in better form. Magnificent reporting under any light!—P. G. F.

he appeared a little prudish and artificial.

But one day, low and behold, there was his father standing up while mother got seated. And he even said one night when the telephone rang, "I'll get it, Nellie," instead of waiting for her to drop her magazine and go out to the hall. Both children were astonished.

Intifling Family Pride
Walter figured something like this. "Why daddy is a real gentleman. He knows more about things than I do. He knows as much as Mr. Brown." Children get impressions, and correct ones.

Walter might forget all about this new courtesy, as children are great experimenters and showmen, but with the continued influence next door, he will most probably find his new manner quite natural in a few more short weeks. And victoriously, the rest of the family will pick it up.

They have gotten careless, and three of them had ceased to think of mother as a lady deserving civility, thought and consideration. All the lessons in the home are not taught by parents. A child may make over an entire family very often, and this is why associates of the right sort are the best education he can have.

Seeks Reinstatement

NEW YORK — Helen Hicks, who is to be married in February, says that she will apply for reinstatement within a year. After that date Miss Hicks suspects that her golf will be curtailed to play in and around Little Rock where she will make her home. The former woman's champion has told the sports goods concerns for which she traveled that all is concluded.
Miss Hicks believes that she will have to wait the full three years for reinstatement. The U.S.G.A. is a stickler on that. However, the association starts counting its years from the date on which the applicant ceases playing professionally. Had the Woodmere, L. I. miss been in professional golf more than five years she would have lost her chance for reinstatement.

New Movie Air Thriller Will Include Actual Race Scenes

HOLLYWOOD — At least one sequel of MGM's "Test Pilot" will go to the screen without any retakes, says National Air Races.
Three camera crews were sent to Cleveland to film the Thompson Trophy Race and now some of these scenes will be cut into "Test Pilot" to provide thrilling realism.
In order that these scenes may tie in credibly with the picture, Metro has bought a couple of the planes which actually participated in the race. These ships will be used for closeups with Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy.
The plane which Gable is supposed to fly is Earl Ortmann's Maroon Brumberg Special which took second money in the Thompson classic. They could not buy the first-prize winner, Rudy Kling died in that one in Miami last month.

Driving to the Van Nuys Airport, where the company is on location, I wondered what the movie-makers would do about the mountains which occupy every horizon, for there are no such mountains around Cleveland.
Eliminating Mountains
What they did was perch their cameras on high platforms and shoot down at the field. Around the edge were official cars, ambulances, trouble cars and fueling trucks, all decked out with new Ohio Licenses.
Only thing wrong was that the license didn't have any letters on them, while real Ohio plates have two letters.

The scene being shot was after the finish of the race, with Gable standing beside his ship and wearing a wreath of flowers. Just then, however, another plane is supposed to crash at the end of the field, and the crowd sprays away in the wake of ambulances and fire trucks.
Myrna Loy starts to dash with the crowd, but Tracy stops her because the crack up victim is a friend of hers.

Gable seemed to feel pretty silly in his formal decoration and the ribbing of Tracy and Miss Loy didn't help to get him to tire, for after three takes they ran off about half a mile. Director Victor Fleming promised lunch after one more take, and this sustained the mob for a final dash across the field.

Most elaborate church wedding was that of Jeanette MacDonald and Gene and Tony Martin, Anne Shirley and Raymond. Some important first marital ventures were those of Alice Faye John Payne, Tom Brown and Natalie Graper, Jackie Coogan and Betty Grable.

The origin of whist in England is obscure, but under its old name, of Triumph, it was well known as early as 1529 when Bishop Latimer preached a Christmas sermon at Cambridge and based the allegories on the game.

Small Businesses to Be Called Into FRD's Conference

Manufacturers Forecast Business Pickup "Some Time This Year"

ORGANIZE COUNCIL

Advisory Group of Industry, Finance and Labor to Be Formed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Two-thirds of the country's manufacturers expect improvement in business some time in 1938. Colby M. Chester, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, told senator investigators Thursday.

The chairman of the board of General Foods corporation said "only a few" manufacturers contacted in a cross-section survey thought there would be a turn for the worse.

Colly testified before the senate unemployment committee. Meanwhile, a White House aide said Thursday President Roosevelt would call in small business men soon in seeking co-operative methods or regularizing business and employment.

This was disclosed as the president put forward the organization of a continuing, all-embracing council as a simple method of helping the administration formulate national economic policies.

The president said the council should include small business men. This far, a White House official noted, presidential conferences have included only captains of industry and finance and labor leaders.

Policies Moderated
WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt said Wednesday night he is working toward organization of an advisory council comprising all elements of the national economic life to guide him in the formulation of federal policies.

He made the statement to the Commerce Department's new Business Advisory Council after approving a statement of that group's ideas on what should be done to end the industrial recession.

The president modified his stand of last week for abolition of all holding companies. He said that some holding companies have produced a certain amount of mass efficiency in operation or are otherwise to the public interest.

Commenting on a request by the council for legislation fixing responsibility of labor unions, Mr. Roosevelt suggested that unions should be content rather than by law, list publicly their receipts and expenditures.

The council, formed in 1933 at the suggestion of Secretary Roper and often critical of administration policy since that time, met in subcommittee and later as a unit to approve the statement of its views, before going to the White House.

W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railroad and chairman of the council, was the spokesman. He read the statement of the council which:

Approved the object of wage-hour legislation, but asked that a study of the question be made before another bill is introduced. Mr. Roosevelt later replied that he hoped such a study would not preclude action at this session of Congress.

Pledged to co-operation of the group in working out legislation for elimination of harmful business practices, "recognized" that the "anti-trust laws are to an extent outmoded," and said that monopoly and monopolistic practices were incompatible with democracy.

Pleaded the council's help in working toward decentralization of industry, geographically, but "viewed with grave concern any general move to outlaw holding companies."

Deplored the administration's controversy with the public utility industry and asked that the industry be assured it will not be destroyed by government competition. Mr. Roosevelt said the misunderstanding affected but 15 per cent of the industry.

Endorsed the president's housing program. Called for modification of the undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax and said that the mass of investors "need assurance as to the direction reform is to take."

Opposed any "further cheapening of the dollar."

ture they were really in need of relief, because of a mistaken belief that such registration would give them priority.

Nims said state WPA rolls had been increased by certification of 20,500 persons recently, in addition to the 55,328 who were listed in December.

In Pennsylvania there are 105,000 persons eligible for WPA aid who cannot be put on the rolls because the quota of 193,000 is filled. J. B. Hudson, state WPA director, testified. He said employment had increased slightly this month in the soft coal fields but this had been offset by a decline in the hard coal areas.

David C. Adie, New York state public welfare director, said that approximately 1,200,000 are on relief in the state, exclusive of those employed on WPA projects. He said the state's relief bill for the fiscal year would approximate $200,000,000 of which the federal government would contribute $2,000,000.

In New York city 460,259 persons are drawing relief in some form. Expenditures in the city for local and state relief during 1937 totaled $139,000,000 and 326,421 persons were on those rolls at December, 1937. This was the lowest in almost four years.

No. 4

Who Must File Returns

Returns are required of every single person who for the year had a gross income of $5,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 or more and of every husband and wife living together who for the year 1937 had an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more or an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more. Widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent are classed as single persons. The personal exemptions are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families.

Husband and wife living together at the close of the taxable year may include their income in a single joint return or make separate returns of the income of each. If separate returns are filed, one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which actually belongs to him. If a joint return is filed, such return is treated as a taxable unit, and the income disclosed is subject to both the normal tax and the surtax.

In order for a return to be classified as a joint return of husband and wife both spouses must have had some income or deductions in the year for which the return is filed, and the return must include the income and deductions of both spouses.

If a joint return is not made by an agent of the taxpayers it must be signed by both husband and wife and sworn to before a proper officer or the spouse preparing the return, or if neither or both prepare the return then by both spouses.

Where separate returns are filed by husband and wife, the joint personal exemption of $2,500 may be taken by either or divided between them in any proportion as agreed upon.

In filing a joint return husband and wife compute the earned income credit in the same manner as in filing separate returns. If taxpayer's net income is not more than $3,000, the entire net income is considered to be earned net income.

Husband and wife may elect each year whether to file a joint return or separate returns. Where, however, joint or separate returns have been filed for a particular year, neither husband nor wife may after the due date of the return file an amended return or returns on a different basis for that year.

Commissioner Has Welfare Control

Attorney General Rules Miss Haynie May Hire, Fire Employees

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Attorney General Jack Holt ruled Wednesday that the commissioner of public welfare has authority to employ and discharge personnel of the state Department of Public Welfare.

Three ruling nullified—at least until a court test of the issue has been obtained—a regulation of the state Welfare Board that personnel matters of the department must be approved by the board.

The opinion, prepared by Assistant Attorney General Millard Alford, explained that "evidently the legislature took into consideration the fact that the commissioner of public welfare is such, was the executive head of a department employing more than 300 employees, and in order to effectively discipline her department, the legislature saw fit to give her sole authority to discharge."

Although the opinion, by setting aside the regulation of the board giving itself authority to approve or reject actions of Miss Gussie Haynie, commissioner, in personnel matters, it did little toward final clarification of the tangle occasioned by confusion of commodity exchanges, given by W. D. Epsy, chief of the New Orleans office of the Commodity Exchange Administration, completed the morning program.

At the afternoon session, reaching more people and higher standards of living were the themes of the discussion. Educational information was discussed by K. B. Roy, agricultural editor, Miss Frances Stanley, assistant editor; C. L. Smith, Hempstead county agent; and Miss Jewell Davis, Polk county home demonstration agent.

Miss Connie J. Bonislagel, state home demonstration agent, discussed the development of leadership as a means of reaching more rural people. She emphasized that all people in the county should be familiar with the programs of work outlined by the county agricultural committees. A plan for the strengthening and enlargement of the county committees was outlined by Mr. Baber.

Raising school standards through rural electrification was discussed by E. L. Arnold, agricultural engineer, and Mrs. Ida A. Fenton, economist in home management. Electricity on the farm can be used for productive purposes, and should not be considered merely as a luxury, Mr. Arnold said.

He urged that careful plans be made before any wiring is attempted in order to get the best use of power.

The closing discussion of the afternoon was led by Miss Posey, and concerned the home-made homes campaign sponsored by the Service. Miss Euna Harrell and W. F. Spivey reported on progress of the campaign.

Pork Is Splendid Fuel for Body's "Furnace"

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDON
NEA Service Staff Writer

Though pork returns to lower price ranges, it is high in those little calories which furnish body heat. So pork is two-fold welcome now.

The more fatty forms of pork are roast, fresh ham and sausage. Smoked ham and bacon, having been specially treated, are a little more easily digested than fresh pork products.

The following recipes will prove to your palate that the little pig has many different moods.

Crown Roast of Pork with Glazed Apples

(4 to 6 servings)
Six pounds of loin of pork, 3/4 pound ground pork trimmings, 6 slices of bread, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 onion, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 6 small apples, ten cents worth of red cinnamon candies, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 2 cups water.

Have the butcher make a crown roast out of the 6 pound loin. Take chopped pork, mix it with soft bread crumbs, parsley and chooped onion which has been sauteed in butter. Fill cavity in center of pork with stuffing. Bake about two hours in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) basting frequently. Peel and core apples. Make a syrup of sugar, water and candies.

Drop apples into hot syrup, cook very slowly and watch carefully. When they are soft remove from syrup. Put pork on a large platter and garnish with apples.

Sausage Cake Baked with Apple

(4 to 6 servings)
One and one-half pounds sausage meat, 6 apples, 1/2 cup brown sugar. Shape meat into small flat cakes. Pare and core apples and cut in small slices. Lay sausage cakes in center of a baking pan. Lay slices of apple around sausages. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Bake about 15 minutes in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) Baste frequently.

Sausages With Oysters and Eggs

(4 to 6 servings)
Eight small link sausages, 1/4 onion, 1 cup medium sized oysters, 6 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon salt.
Cut sausages into three pieces each, chop onion very fine, beat eggs slightly, wash oysters. Cook sausage with onion in an iron frying pan which has been heated until sausages are well browned, add oysters, and cook until edges curl, then add eggs and salt and scramble all together.

Baked Pork Chops with Pineapple (4 to 6 servings)
Six large loin pork chops (ask the butcher to cut them three to a pound).

The PAYOFF

By HARRY GRAYSON

Sports Editor, NEA Service

NEW YORK.—Max Schmeling will take his second shot at both the world heavyweight championship and Joe Louis' chin in Detroit in June.

While the official announcement will not be made for weeks, you may rest assured that whatever shopping is done meanwhile definitely will be for hallyhoo purposes.

Michael Strauss Jacobs, the promoter, has picked Detroit over New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia for nine reasons, and his listing them to your correspondence is something in the way of evidence that the show is going to the fair of the Tigers, Navin Field, which right now is the chosen site.

Detroit is virgin territory. Michigan politicians and business men want the production. Postmaster General James A. Farley and other large shots along with them.

Detroit is the center of the automobile industry, which will contribute heavily to the ringside and all other sections. A number of the more important automotive organizations have agreed to make their annual conventions coincide with the date of the fight. They'll bring in dealers from all over the country.

Detroit is a ranking boxing city, right now second to only Manhattan. Lettwin is Joe Louis' home town. Louis hasn't appeared in Detroit since he became a major mitt figure.

Schmeling has yet to put up his hands in Detroit.

Jacobs is convinced that the anti-Nazi boycott would do irreparable damage to the shindig in New York, and will be almost totally ineffective in Detroit.

The Michigan press will be friendly. Garden Averages $35,000 for Seven Shows

So Detroit gets the scrap and the $10,000,000 worth of business it will bring in.

It sounds funny coming from a cold-blooded cuss like Jacobs, but the old Broadway ticket scalper's only worry at this time seems to be hotel accommodations for the multitude. Michael Strauss speaks from experience. He had a tough time finding a room during the world series of 1934-35.

Jacobs has, however, decided to let the overflow shift for itself, and is convinced that Louis and Schmeling will bring back the million-dollar gate.

There is ample room in Navin Field, and Jacobs has an elaborate portable seating set-up for the infield.

Jacobs is going his way in the book-busting business and other dodges, and letting the alarmists waste their breath and time.

He has averaged $35,000 for seven shows since he took over the pugilistic privileges at Madison Square Garden last fall, and has an ambitious program.

Here it is: Jan. 21—James J. Braddock vs. Tommy Farr, 10 rounds. In this house seeded from $1.10 to $11.50, he professes to believe that this one will gross $90,000.

Feb. 4—Freddie Apostoli vs. Glen Lee of Nebraska, 12 rounds.

Feb. 18—Mike Galento vs. Harry Thomas, 12 rounds.

Feb. 23—Louis vs. Nathan Mann, 15 rounds for the title.

March 4—Gunner Barland vs. Buddy Baer.

March 11—Max Baer vs. the winner of the Braddock-Farr engagement.

March 18—Henry Armstrong vs. Pedro Montañez.

Schmeling Starts Twice Before Big One

There is a weight hitch in connection with the latter, Montañez being hesitant about doing 135 pounds, but a detail such as that never has stopped Jacobs.

There remain only two more dates at the Garden before the circus and spring set in, and Jacobs doesn't intend to throw them away on poor attractions.

Schmeling intends to make one more start in this country after disposing of Ben Ford, the South African, in Hamburg, Jan. 30. Jacobs may stick him in the Garden although the German prefers Chicago.

But Schmeling will have no choice in the location of his second edition with Louis.

Detroit gets the big one.

Nutmeg-Meringue Pie

Nutmeg-Meringue Pie
Nutmeg Pastry
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons flour
Few grains salt
1 cup water
3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons butter
1 lemon juice and rind
3 egg whites
9 tablespoons sugar
Make and bake a 9-inch pie shell using 1/2 pastry recipe and adding 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg to flour. Mix one cup sugar, flour, salt and little water until smooth.
Add beaten egg yolks and remaining water. Cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Cover and cook 10 minutes. Add butter, grated lemon rind and juice. Pour into pie shell. Cover with meringue made of egg whites and sugar. Sprinkle with grated nutmeg. Bake in slow oven 20 minutes.

Pumpkin Pie

Pumpkin Pie
3/4 cup pumpkin (cooked or canned)
2 3/4 cup light brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg
1 1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup medium cream
Unless pumpkin is very dry, cook over low heat to evaporate moisture. Stir frequently. Remove from stove, mix sugar, salt and spices and stir into the pumpkin. Stir in unbeaten egg and mix thoroughly. Stir in milk. Stir in 1/2 cup cream. Line pie plate with pastry. Pour in pumpkin mixture. Pour remaining 1/4 cup cream over top. Place in hot oven and cook until pastry is cooked on the bottom. Remove to center shelf of oven and reduce heat to moderate. Bake until mixture will not adhere to knife inserted in center, or about 25 minutes longer. Top with whipped cream.

Apple Crumb Pie

Apple Crumb Pie
Plain pastry for 1-crust pie
4 large tart apples
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup flour
1/2 cup butter
Roll out pastry and fit into pie pan. Peel and cut the apples into eighths. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup sugar that has been mixed with the cinnamon. Stir the remaining 1/2 cup sugar with the flour. Chop the butter into the flour and sugar mixture until it looks very crumbly. Sprinkle this over the sugared apples. Bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes, then reduce the heat to moderate and bake 20 minutes more until the apples are tender. Reheat just before dinner and serve warm with cheese.

Chocolate Cream Pie

Chocolate Cream Pie

2 1/2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
5 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
2 egg whites
4 tablespoons sugar
Add chocolate to milk and heat in double boiler. When chocolate is melted, combine sugar, flour and salt, and gradually to chocolate mixture and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Then continue cooking 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour small amount of mixture over egg yolks, stirring vigorously; return to double boiler and cook 2 minutes longer. Remove from boiling water, add butter and vanilla. Cool and turn into pie shell. Beat egg whites until foamy, add sugar gradually, beating until the mixture will stand in peaks. Pipe lightly on filling. Bake in moderate oven 15 minutes or until delicately brown.

Meat need be no tougher than the cook is careless. Don't scorn a round steak. Beat it. Don't turn up your nose at pot roast. Turn down the heat and cook it a long time.
Steak in the Garden
(Serves 4 to 6)
Two pounds round steak cut 1 1/2 inches thick, flour salt, pepper, mustard, 8 white onions, 4 carrots, 1 green pepper, 6 peeled potatoes, 3 tablespoons shortening.
With a potato masher pound flour mixed with a little dry mustard into the steak on both sides. Then season with salt and pepper. Use heavy iron skillet. Heat butter in skillet and when very hot brown meat well on both sides. Then add scraped carrots

Fruit and Cheese Are Congenial When Allied in Sunday Dessert

A fruit and cheese tray for your Sunday supper party is its own explanation for the steadily growing popularity in America of this Continental type of dessert.

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

If you enjoy fruit, here's news for you. Orange supplies between now and May are expected to be the largest on record. During this period, both Florida and California will divide the honors.
Fruit for dessert is not only good food, it is also now "highly fashionable." Especially when served with cheese, such as Liederkranz, Roquefort or Camembert. If you are not in the habit of serving a cheese and fruit dessert, begin this pleasant custom at your next Sunday night supper.

Preserved fruits as well as fresh fruits make tasty alliances with cheese. Preserved fruits drained and stuffed with a mixture of cream cheese and a dash of salt and cayenne are tasty novelties. Liederkranz makes a quantity stuffing for large prunes. Large black grapes chilled, and seeded, are delicious stuffed with pimento cheese.

Baked Rhubarb and Bananas
Two cups rhubarb, 3 bananas, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/2 tablespoons butter.
Wash rhubarb and cut into one-inch pieces. Peel and slice bananas, arrange in baking dish in alternate layers, add sugar, lemon juice and butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) two hours.

D. Luxe Compote

(4 to 6 servings)
Six red apples, 6 eating pears, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1/2 cup water, juice and rind of 1 lemon, juice and rind of 1 small orange.
Peel pears and apples and cut into thin slices. Mix sugar, water and lemon juice. Cut rind of lemon and orange into very small pieces and cook in syrup. Add apples and pears to syrup and cook until soft. Place in individual glasses and chill in refrigerator. Top with whipped cream and a little candied peel or ginger or a cherry to make a richer dessert.

Winter Pot Roast

(Serves 4 to 6)
Four pounds pot roast, 2 tablespoons lard, or 1 tablespoon lard and 1 tablespoon bacon drippings, 1/4 cup clear vegetable stock, salt and pepper, 2 cups cleaned raw cranberries, 2 whole cloves, 1 clove garlic, flour, 1/2 teaspoon sugar.
Wipe pot roast with damp cloth. Dredge with flour. Heat shortening in large iron kettle. Drop garlic into hot shortening. Cook 2 minutes, then remove. Brown pot roast in flavored shortening on all sides. Season with salt and pepper. Stick cloves into meat. Add water and cranberries to kettle. Cover. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for at least 2 hours.

Barnstorming of College Cage Teams Sweeps Basketball to New Heights

Hoop Game Puzzles Nobody, So More People Patronize and Play It Than Any Other—Popularity Still Growing

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Staff Writer

Dr. James A. Naismith, the father of basketball, never dreamed that the game he introduced while a Y. M. C. A. instructor in Springfield, Mass., back in 1891, would sweep to the height of popularity it enjoys today.
It was beyond his fondest hopes that millions of Americans would pop basketball through the nets in every hamlet in the land; that crowds of 18,000 would jam a hall in a single night to see the game played.

But that, exactly, is just what happened. The game which started out as a "healthful exercise" and employed homely peach baskets, market variety, for goals, now attracts more paid admissions through turnstiles than any other sports on the books.

From the standpoint of participation, too, there are more people competing in basketball than any other active sport. There are at least 20,000,000 people throughout the world who play the game, and at least 15,000,000 of this number do their dribbling and shooting in the United States.
Easy Game to Follow
This number doesn't seem so large when consideration is taken of the widespread scope of action. This is split up among college, high school, junior high school, A. A. U., industrial and church leagues, professional and community center competition.

Nor is interest in the game labeled "for men only." Hundreds of high schools sponsor variety basketball for girls, and the brand of ball played under men's rules by some of the star women's industrial and A. A. U. teams is a revelation.
Anyone can understand and appreciate basketball. It isn't like football, where close line play and the distance from the actual playing field often make it difficult for the inexperienced fan to follow things intelligently.
Basketball, of course, is played on a smaller court; everything is out in the open, and even the least trained until meat is tender. Remove meat to large hot platter. Thicken red sauce in pot with flour, then serve as gravy.
When cooking either of these two covered-pot low cost meat dishes, select other foods that can be oven-cooked at the same time. Remember this little cooking economy fact—the money you don't spend for gas or electricity or other cooking fuel can be spent for more and better food.

Porkers To Open Series With Rice

Razorbacks Not Expected To Encounter Much Opposition

By the Associated Press
Deadlocked with a surprising Baylor team in first position, the touted University of Arkansas Razorbacks come out of temporary retirement on the home court at Fayetteville Thursday and Friday nights to meet the charge of a mediocre Rice Institute five.

The Porkers, strengthened by the addition of Jim Benton, rangy guard who carried over his football chores into New Year's Day, were not expected to have too much trouble in disposing of a Rice team that has been highly erratic to date.

Twice spilled by Arkansas, a question mark Texas Aggie team also has two weekend games booked. Friday night they stop at Fort Worth to meet a hapless Texas Christian team that has shown nothing in two starts against Texas.

A 19-point score against Baylor Tuesday night sent Wee Willie Tate, Texas ace, soaring into the lead in the individual scoring race with 44 points for an average of 11 per game. Far behind in second place with 28 points was Louie Freiburger, Aggie center.

Fordham Grid Team To Meet Rice In 1939

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Fordham University announced Wednesday its 1939 football team would meet Rice, 1937 champions of the Southwest conference, on November 4, 1939. Other games already arranged for 1939 will send the Rams against Alabama, Pittsburgh, New York University, St. Mary's (Calif.) and Indiana.

On Willkie's alternate proposal that the government advance money to Tennessee Valley states to help them buy their properties in their entirety, Lienthal said he saw no economic need for such an arrangement. He said the government would not go into the business of running an electric utility and "reading meters."

John C. Calhoun, vice president of the United States under John Quincy Adams, was the only one ever to resign from that office.

"But I liked best the practical emphasis given the educational activities. While I was there, the girls in home economics were canning fruits and vegetables—not little samples but commercial-size cans and jars. They were canning food which will be used on the place. This is one thing that the people of Georgia must learn, if they would live well and have an adequate diet."
"Then I was fascinated with the shops. I saw many pieces of furniture being made that would like to have

Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, asserted after a visit that he was convinced "we must come more and more to this type of education, because less than 20 per cent of our high school graduates ever attend colleges and universities."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pain, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 12 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

YEH, OFFICER, THEY WERE KEEL AND TOBING IT UP TENTH STREET. TH' FAT YEGG HAD A LOAD OF LOOT OVER HIS SHOULDER. YOU'LL KNOW HIM BY HIS RUTABAGA NOSE AND HIS PLUM HAT!

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

A SMALL HOUSE, IT IS, BUT THE HEARTS THAT BEAT INSIDE ITS WALLS ARE STRONG AND BIG!

HOT MANY FOLKS WILL WELCOME A STRANGER TO THEIR TABLES, AND FEED HIM, ASKING NO QUESTIONS AND EXPECTING NO FAVORS IN RETURN!

A GREAT HOUSE MAY COME FROM THE SAME TREES THAT MADE A SMALL ONE! IT MAY BE THE SAME WOOD — THE SAME KIND OF BRICKS — BUT NO ARCHITECT CAN DESIGN THE HEARTS THAT MAKE HOMES DIFFER!

MYRA NORTH, SPECIAL NURSE

I STILL DON'T SEE WHAT EARTHLY GOOD WE CAN BE TO YOU, NOLAN. ESPECIALLY WITH THIS BANGED UP HEAD OF MINE

I OEG OF YOU — JUST ACCOMPANY ME TO THE ARNOLD DOOR

THE NEXT MOMENT THE GIANT AIR-LINER GRACEFULLY TOUCHES THE RUNWAY OF HILL ARNOLD'S PRIVATE LANDING FIELD.

QUICK! CROSS THE FIELD TO THAT CAR!
